SEC. 01

This course will look at women in classical antiquity, in the medieval period and in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. It is given as an introduction to Women's Studies, and also as a useful elective for those in other departments.

Topics to be considered include: Women in pre-Christian and early Christian society, women in the medieval world, the impact of industrialization, struggles for political, social and legal rights, changes in women's self image, emerging feminist thought and the early women's movement. Student participation in class discussion is stressed.

THERE ARE NO PREREQUISITES.
